The setting sun reflects the light of Wake Forest, a light which we have kindled and which we hope to pass on to others, in the same manner as the sun bestows life on growing things. The light of Wake Forest is many things
—it's the ready "hi" whenever students meet
—it's the visit to a sick friend in the infirmary that there really isn't time for —it's the ball player who plays his heart out in a game and the fans who cheer him on It's all these things and more. For the light of Wake Forest is her students, students acting as the individuals they are, and at the same time being a part of that experience—college.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE

WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

Solitude gives time for reflection, for personal evaluation,
for belonging wholly to oneself.
Solitude is broken to share the thoughts and feelings of another, to talk and plan and hope in terms of two.

The intimacy of couples gives way to groups, changing associations.
Ideas born of one, nurtured by two, are brought to the open light of diverse opinions, there to grow or to be absorbed in greater thoughts.

The academic light—leading the student in quest of knowledge.
He explores,
discovers, establishes.

The social light—leading the student as he seeks love, laughter, comradeship with his fellows.

The spiritual light—leading the student to acknowledge God as the giver of life.

Informal discussions in which new students get acquainted and exchange ideas highlight pre-school retreat.

B. S. U. RETREAT AND FRESHMEN ORIENTATION

The first week of orientation is more hectic than any other time in college life. The confusion of meeting appointments in the various buildings is gradually relieved by the social activities of the week.

New and different people are met. Friends are made. Sometimes homesickness is evident.

Through the efforts of the Orientation Committee, each freshman is indoctrinated into the traditions of the college, and each begins to feel himself a part of Woke Forest.

The final capture of the retreat is a time for counting m.c., board shops and recalling the good times of the past three days.

Orientation social proves a welcome break for freshmen amid endless tests, speeches, and conferences.

Me, me in and renews old friendships always make the first day exciting.

A freshman's first letter from home cures the tinges of homesickness.

BEGINNING THE YEAR 1961

The W. G. A. picnic at the Barn gives freshmen a chance to get acquainted with their big sisters.

Registration is remembered for the long lines which finally ended at the book store.

Fall semester begins with renewed friendships as summer vacations are compared.

Getting settled in the dormitory adds to the excitement already in the air. The post office becomes a valuable spot for freshmen and upperclassmen as well.

Then the work begins. Registration is the first headache. After getting a satisfactory schedule, a student feels he has already done a semester's work. The crowded book store is another task.

Socially the year begins with get-acquainted parties. WGA sponsors the co-ed picnic, the Student Union has combo parties at the Barn, and the fraternities have their rush parties and smokers.

FALL ACTIVITIES

As summer fades away, the beauty of autumn brightens the campus.

Football is everyone's concern. A trip to Bowman Gray Stadium on Saturdays is a necessity.

Alumni and friends of the college can be seen frequently on the campus. Freshmen look forward to seeing their families on Parents' Week-end. Alumni anticipate Homecoming.

Freshman elections clutter the campus with posters, and the air is freshened with politics.

The trees on the plaza become barren, but student life is anything but barren during the fall months.

A Saturday afternoon means a trip across town to Bowman Gray Stadium.

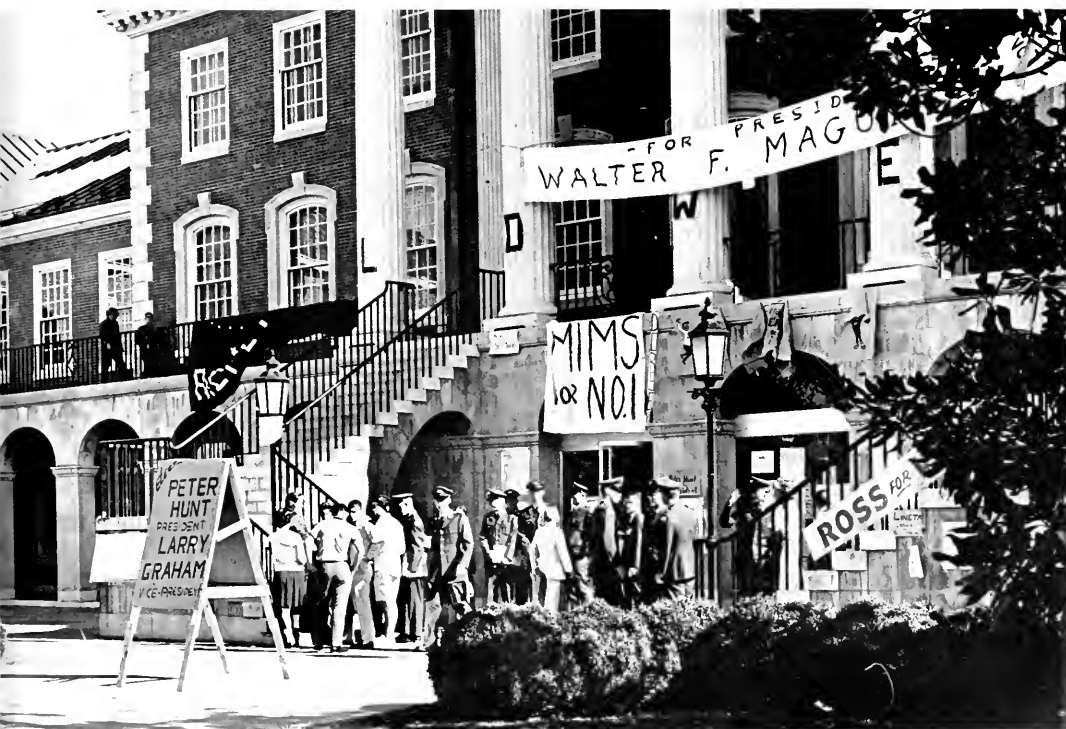

Fraternity ugly men vie for the APO Ugly Man Trophy.

Parents are acquainted with faculty members and college life during Freshman Parents Week end.

The enthusiasm of freshman office seekers is exceeded only by their artistic abilities.

The music of Lionel Hampton highlighted the Homecoming Dance.

Homecoming was the first big weekend of the fall semester.

There were parties. The Greeks had combos, the Independents had the ballroom of the Robert E. Lee. Everyone had fun.

And there was the game. The Alumni and the pretty girls with yellow "mums" cheered as the Deacons beat Virginia—and not too reverently, either.

It all ended with the dance. There were colored balloons floating down from the rafters, Lionel Hampton vibrating, a fountain gurgling. Feet shuffling, voices laughing and talking, then the last dance, a kiss, the last "Good Night," and it was all over.

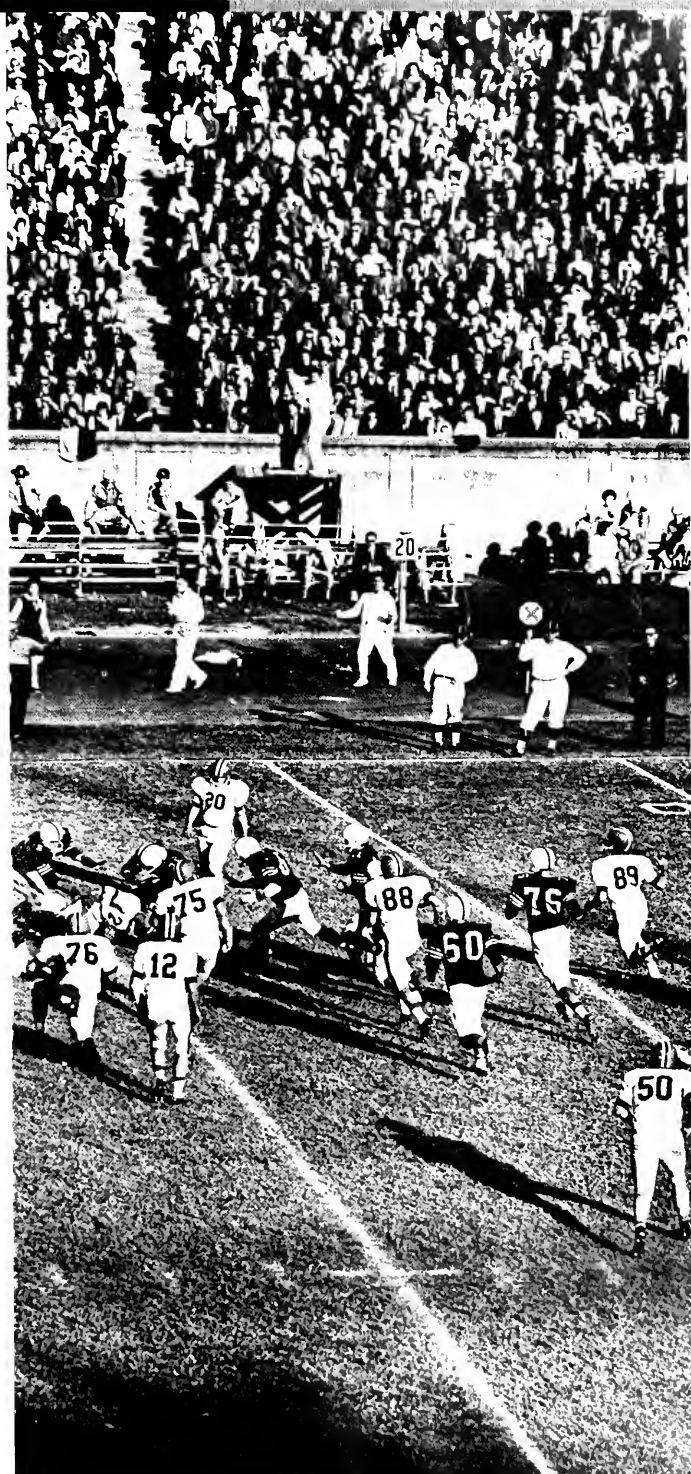

Alumni and students enjoyed a night of dancing at the Coliseum.

Connie Pinyoun was chosen to reign over Greek Week.

The Greeks had their week.

A field day featured a race with a greasy pig, a tug of war in a muddy pit, and attempts to scale a greased pole.

Friday was the night for parties.

Early Saturday morning decorations foretelling a Deacon victory began to take shape. The Delta Sigs' gobbler shoot theme was judged the best.

Saturday afternoon all the Greeks and their dates watched the Deacon eleven fulfill their prophesy with a win over V.P.I.

That night the I.F.C. sponsored the finale. The men and their sweethearts danced to the accompaniment of the Drifters. At intermission, Connie Pinyoun was crowned Queen of the Wake Forest Greeks.

CHRISTMAS

An expression of joy greets an old friend at the Children's Party

Charlie McCarthy entertains children before St. Nick appears

A Christmas tree at a girl's dorm adds a final touch to the holidays spirit already in the air.

The three weeks before the Christmas recess were filled with parties, dances, caroling, and shopping.

The Student Government gave a party for the children of the community where Santa Claus shared the spotlight with Charlie McCarthy. Some of the fraternities gave parties for other children.

The Mozart Club presented "Messiah" and the college choir presented Christmas vespers.

The WGA sponsored a dance at the Robert E. Lee. The girls had a dorm party around their tree. Everybody caroled on the plaza.

Finally the lost-minute quizzes had been taken and packing was done, and we headed for various parts of the country for rest and reunion.

Some are faced with task of scanning a great deal of source material the day before a semester paper is due.

A student finds a quiet place to study in the library stacks.

The comfort and informality of the East Lounge makes it a popular place to study.

EXAM TIME

Exams are like death and taxes. Only exams come twice a year. Yet we manage to survive in spite of them.

Reading day comes. Class schedules are forgotten and some of us sleep 'til noon. Others become acquainted, for perhaps the first time, with the library.

The mass educational process grinds to a halt and self-education begins. We are well into exam period.

Night and day lights burn in dorm rooms, the library, and the East Lounge. Some of us study in groups. Others study alone. Most of us study.

Finally, one by one, we write the last word in the last blue book and then we join the mass exodus; once again looking forward to a brief period of recuperation before we must face another ordeal—registration.

A trip to Vegas is a must to break the monotony of a long night of study.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS

Wanny Wagster, Secretary of the Student Body, outstanding in student government

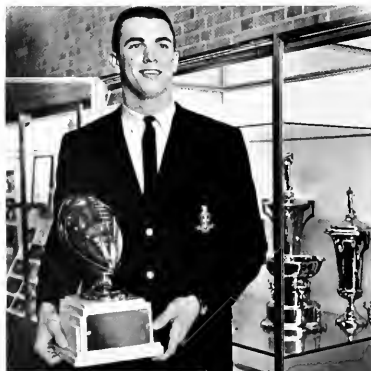

Meyressa Hughes, exchange student to the University of Berlin; outstanding as leader and scholar.

Al Baker, outstanding in debate and Honor Council.

Bill Hull, President of the Senior Class, outstanding in athletics.

Ann Kinken, President of Woman's Government Association; versatile campus leader.

Linda Adams, Secretary of Honor Council; outstanding as campus leader.

September 1958 brought to Wake Forest another bewildered, bright-eyed freshman class filled with aspirations, fears, and enthusiasm. These were faced with the task of establishing a new identity in an unknown world. There were those among the bewildered group who asserted their leadership and character through service.

Though efforts seemed futile and accomplishments insignificant, aspirations and enthusiasm continued to exist to mold the leaders of the Class of 1962. It is upon these leaders that their classmates have chosen to bestow the title "Outstanding Senior" with the hope that a measure of appreciation may be shown for their service to the college community.

*Chuck Keiley, Captain of football team; outstanding in leadership

*Pat Williams, President of Monogram Club;

Sisie Davis, Editor of HOWLER, outstanding in publications.

Leony Chappell, All-American; outstanding in basketball.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

German exchange student to Wake Forest, Klaus Kipphan, discusses slides with American students Neil Disher, Myressa Hughes, and Lon Morgan helping them to recall their year in Deutschland.

Representatives of the Orient, Europe, and South America are included each year in our student body.

Every year the college participates in an exchange program with a German university.

Many foreign students choose to study here on their own resources. They bring with them many of their countries' traditions. Dormitory life is enriched by them. Usually each becomes fully Americanized before he leaves.

Some stay in the United States after graduation in order to find a new life, while others carry their knowledge back to their native lands.

In their stay here, foreign students also learn to blend into the oneness that is Wake Forest.

Representing the Orient at Wake Forest are Nithi Klunkosum, Peter Wong, Jin Hung Yu, Gee Yin Kwok.

African student, Ed Reynolds, discusses the conditions in his country at the pre-school retreat.

MID WINTER

Winter comes with its cold and ice, but college life goes on.

Basketball steals the scene from football.

Christmas approaches and creates an air of restlessness. The "Messiah," the Military Ball, and a party for the Red Shield Boys' Club highlight the season.

After the holidays comes the plague of exams. Then the spring semester is begun with stronger determination.

Throughout the winter activities the beauty of the campus is enhanced by snowfall. Winter is always serenely alive at Wake Forest.

Former Dean William C. Archie delivered the address at the one hundred twenty-eighth Convocation of Wake Forest College.

The rains come and the fog creeps in as winter lingers on.

The first snow, fall of winter turns college students into kids again.

Alumnus Arnold Palmer's exhibition attracted outstanding golfers: Billy Joe Patton, Mike Souclak, Lou Worsham.

VISITING PERSONALITIES

After his chapel address, Dr. Robinson answers students' questions about Operation Crossroads Africa.

During the year the college had lecturers and artists of national and international repute.

For the first time the Student Union sponsored a Symposium on "Existentialism and the Contemporary Letters" headed by authors Colin Wilson, Stanley Hopper, and Henry Rago.

Wait Chapel opened its doors to the public with speakers of the caliber of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Billy Graham. Dr. Robinson highlighted the student assembly speakers with his Crossroads Africa Program.

Informal lectures by various university professors and authors were heard in the East Lounge and in the Law Building.

The College Artist Series sponsored outstanding performers. The Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra paid a return visit. Violinist Jaime Laredo and pianist Ania Dorfman played to capacity crowds. The Solov Ballet Ensemble and the Indroni Indian Dancers made superb use of an inadequate stage. Ravi Shankar, sitarist, began the series, and Richard Dyer-Bennett, folk singer, ended it.

Thus, the college continued its tradition of offering cultural improvement to the students and to the community.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt receives newsmen before delivering her speech in Wart Chapel.

The program of the Zachary Soley Ensemble included the ballet "Ches Tchaikovsky."

Noted sitarist Ravi Shankar performed at W. E., as part of a limited tour sponsored by the Asia Society Performing Arts Program.

VISITING PERSONALITIES

Alma: Anna Dorfmann, the only female artist to record with Toscanini, presented a recital in February.

A scholar and balladeer, Richard Dyer-Bennett, exhibited his versatility with songs from England and America.

Robert Sharz rehearses his company in the afternoon before the performance of the "Passion According to St. John."

The temple rhythms of India are interpreted by the Andrami Indian Dancers.

The Tacern on the Green is a place for students to relax, to sing, to remember, and to forget.

Co-eds enjoy an ice cream treat at the Farmer's Dairy Bar.

Students stop to admire the quiet beauty of newly opened Whitaker Park.

THE WINSTON-SALEM COMMUNITY

A couple in love find it impossible to pass the window of a jewel shop without stopping . . . and planning.

For nine months out of the year, Winston-Salem is our home.

The downtown area is a necessity for weekends. These are the times for shopping sprees and visits to the movies.

A job with a local business firm puts spending money in many pockets.

Farmer's Dairy is the dessert corner, while Staley's is turned into a study hall on the night before a quiz.

In the spring and summer months, Tanglewood provides swimming, picnicking, and horseback riding. Bowling alleys, golf courses, and taverns are used by students the year round.

As we have become a part of the Winston-Salem community, so it has gradually become a part of us.

OUR COMMUNITY OF MARRIED STUDENTS

A group exists within the student body of Wake Forest having different interests and responsibilities from the rest of the students. Yet they are a real part of college life and of the college community.

This group is our community of married students. These men and women have found a way to combine the hard work of getting a higher education with the added responsibilities of home and family.

A married couple find a way to blend housework and homework into their schedules.

Wife encourages her husband to relax a moment from his studies.

A married student and his son enjoy a spring afternoon.

Facilities for married students include self-service laundries.

The student apartments are a small community.

The crowded baseball fields are a sure sign of spring.

As soon as the sun melts the last pile of dirty snow and a warm breeze begins to blow and the dogwoods on the plaza begin to bloom, a strange sickness infects the campus.

Books are forgotten and classes are sometimes missed.

Students can be seen heading for the tennis courts in Bermudas or playing bridge in the sun or maybe taking a stroll in the gardens.

Sometimes we are found on one of the athletic fields with a wooden bat in our hand or we might give in to the lure of the golf course or Tanglewood.

No matter what the symptom, the diagnosis is simple—spring fever.

The spring sun, bridge, and idle chatter call co-eds away from their studies.

FACULTY RECREATION

Most Wake Forest students probably know their professors only in the classroom. Too often we forget the person who leaves his office at four each day and heads toward the faculty apartments or to a home on Faculty Drive.

Here he enters a more personal world. He can stash his brief case in the closet, loosen his tie, kick off his shoes, and turn his attention to his home and family.

Dr. John Carter forgets academic pressures while strumming his guitar.

Any sunny Saturday afternoon brings faculty to the golf course. Joining Coach "Bones" McKinney for a fast eighteen holes are Dr. Henry Stroup, Coach Charlie Bryant, and Dr. Ives Gentry.

Dr. Ozen Herring spends his after-class hours in his vegetable garden.

Dr. Changbuh Chie's lakeside view provides him an opportunity to use his talents of self-expression.

FACULTY RECREATION

At home the professor may swap his pencil for a broom, or he may put down "The House of Seven Gables" and pick up a cook book. Sometimes he might find himself to be a nurse, babysitter or general handy-man.

Other times he might find an afternoon to join a foursome at the golf course or perhaps tennis is his game. Some may find relaxation in the charms of music or in the thrill of making things grow. Others may seek only a few minutes of well-deserved rest.

ture; and when necessary a firm, but kind word. Under her knowing guidance, problems have been supplanted with solutions, and obstacles have yielded to enlightened advice. With the welfare of her girls uppermost in her thoughts, she has sought to instill in these young women the ideals and responsibilities of womanhood.

As the first Dean of Women, Miss Lois Johnson leaves her mark on Wake Forest College, an indelible one that even the years cannot eradicate. She has willingly given of her time and energy so that others might profit. But her finest contribution has been the beautiful example which she herself has set: THAT OF A TRUE CHRISTIAN LADY.

OUR FAREWELL

Rarely into the lives of any of us comes the opportunity to meet face to face and to know personally one who so exemplifies the ideals of womanhood as does Miss Lois Johnson.

To the women of Wake Forest College who for two decades have been privileged to receive her understanding guidance, she has been a person whom any of her girls could call a friend. At the same time she has been a guiding spirit: one upon whom any girl could set her goals.

To these women Miss Johnson has been personified by a warm, ready smile; a friendly ges-

GRADUATION

After four years of military discipline, ROTC cadets are sworn in as second Lieutenants.

Graduation is the realization of a goal for the student and his family.

The cap, the gown, the diploma—symbols of a senior and graduation. The end of four years of hard work and much study, yet these are forgotten in the joy of attainment of the cherished goal.

Amid the picture taking, the long wait in line, the excitement, there are the goodbyes. There is sadness for the things one must leave behind; there is eagerness to use what one has learned.

The road ahead is wide. Each graduate goes to accept his responsibility as a mature and educated citizen.

He leaves Wake Forest, yet her Spirit goes with him as he takes his place in society.

Professors must maintain their dignity in all situations

Books are fine and necessary in this fight for knowledge, but seldom is an education acquired simply through reading. The light of learning burns brightest when professors, deans, and friends have lent themselves as the medium for illumination.

Because those who were before us learned and have been willing to share their enlightenment, because they did not hide their light away for themselves alone, we have at least become informed, though certainly not educated in the fullest sense, so that we may continue to learn and may begin to impart our discoveries to others.

Although education may be a more involved process and not bring forth knowledge so easily, results are seen even as magic poured forth from Aladdin's Lamp as it was rubbed. Deans, professors, and faculty research are integral parts in our searching for enlightenment.

ACADEMICS ADMINISTRATION

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Music, as well as the other fine arts, are important in a liberal education.

Wake Forest College has developed from a small manual labor school begun in 1834 into a liberal arts school which ranks with the best schools of its kind in the South.

Its purpose has always been to broaden the knowledge and interests of its students by acquainting them with the fundamentals of various fields in the sciences and in the humanities.

It offers the Bachelor of Arts degree in eighteen different major fields.

Another important phase of a liberal education is an exploration of the life sciences

Learning a new language unfolds new areas of culture for a liberal arts student.

Commercial arts are a vital part of the business program.

Reynolda Hall houses the School of Business Administration.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The School of Business has as its academic objectives a broad general education, an insight into the problems confronting capitalistic economic systems, as well as some understanding of the various functional areas of administration. Majors are offered in accounting, business education and economics, with concentrations in finance, management and marketing.

The most up-to-date equipment is available for mastering techniques of office administration.

Business students are required to do periodical practice sets in accounting.

Graduate students are provided with small cards in the library stacks.

GRADUATE STUDIES AND THE SCHOOL OF LAW

A graduate student in biology conducts freshmen lab work.

Lights in the Law Building burn late as future lawyers prepare for next day's classes.

Established primarily to train young men and women for the practice of law in North Carolina, the Wake Forest School of Law has become national in scope. After successfully completing three years of prescribed study, the student is awarded an LL.B. degree.

A second school for advanced study is the Division of Graduate Studies. Established in 1961, this school offers a full program of study leading to the degree of Master of Arts in six major fields.

OUTSTANDING FACULTY

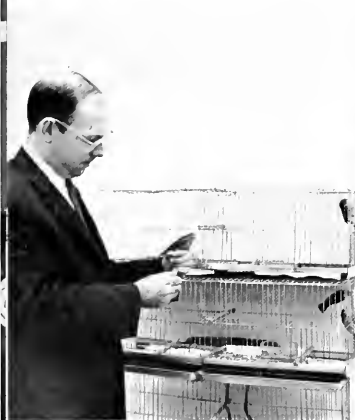

During 1960-61 Dr. Elizabeth Phillips taught American Literature at the Seoul National University as Smith-Mundt Professor for the State Department.

Many students think of a professor as someone who has already "made the grade," someone who has completed his education and who is now able to expound upon his subject without further study.

However, the Wake Forest faculty proves this to be a misconception. No matter what course the professor's further study might take—concentrated research, travel, study abroad, or daily reading—he is constantly improving himself by growing in the knowledge of his subject.

Dr. David Johnston's research on the fat content of birds is valuable in related cancer research. His field study has led him as far away as Alaska.

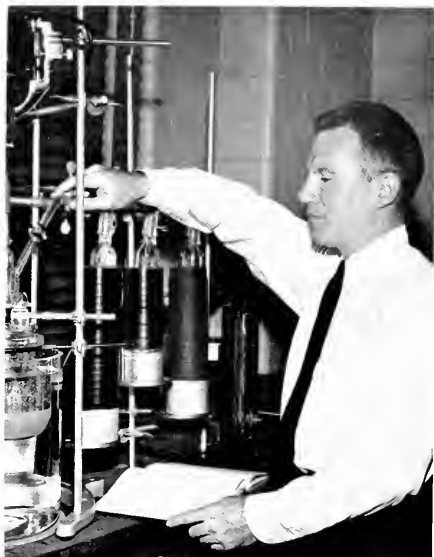

Dr. Willard Hamrick of the religion department inspects rare coins which he has brought back from the Holy Land.

Dr. Beck performs experiments to determine the psychological effect on rodents as a result of changes in diet and environment

Dr. Paul Gross is researching the physical chemical qualities of hydrogen peroxide containing various inorganic salts.

Dr. Hamrick, a chemist, and Dr. Shields, a physicist, are seeking to determine the damage or change inflicted by radiation on chemical compounds. Assisting is student, Allan Harvun.

OUR FIRST FAMILY

Pictures and personalities; scenes and symbols of college friendships; preparation and performance in the game of life; these are some of the facets of the jewel that is your 1962 HOWER. When you turn its pages in the years to come the light of your mood will affect the light of its meaning to you. This year your mood will elicit brilliant flashes from the new pages. After five, fifteen, or fifty years the friendships symbolized and the experiences recorded here will gain strength and significance as the mood mellows and memories emerge with a Rembrandt blending of light and shadow.

Activities and honoraries are interlinked; the latter cannot be without the former even as the flames of the bonfire cannot grow without the materials to feed them. ODK, Tassels, "Who's Who" are the culminating bright lights which have resulted because a small fire was begun in such organizations as the college theater, ROTC, and various departmental societies for the outstanding students in their particular fields of endeavor.

The flame was fed as those students moved on to Alpha Psi Omega, Pershing Rifles, and Phi Beta Kappa.

Thus is the body of students welded together by college activities and honoraries to form a community in spirit, fellowship, and companionship. The growing light of the bonfire is symbolic of the light that should emanate from the student community through these activities and honoraries.

WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES

Who's Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges is a national plan initiated in the school year 1934-35 for the recognition of college students who have been outstanding in some phase of college life. They are nominated for the honor by a local campus committee of student-faculty-administration representatives and accepted by the national organization. In making their selections, the committee members are urged to consider scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, general citizenship service to their school, and promise of future usefulness.

Since its beginning in 1914, Omicron Delta Kappa has been recognized as an organization of outstanding young men.

The honor of being chosen as a member comes only to those who exert superior qualities of leadership and service in all aspects of campus life. One of the prime aims of this organization is to cooperate with others, both students and faculty, in an effort to promote understanding and the betterment of the school.

TASSELS

Tassels, the honorary leadership society for women at Wake Forest recognizes students who are outstanding campus leaders and scholars.

Historically, the tassel was the yarn used to clean the bow so that the arrow would follow a true course.

The women who are chosen to wear the tassel are those who follow the true course of continuing leadership and service to others while maintaining a high scholastic average.

DELTA PHI ALPHA

The aims of Delta Phi Alpha, the national German Honorary Fraternity, are to promote the study of German literature and civilization and to emphasize those aspects of German life and culture which are of universal value.

Delta Chi, Wake Forest's chapter of Delta Phi Alpha, selects its members on the basis of completion of four semesters of German, an overall scholastic average of C with an average of B in German courses, and indication of continued interest in the study of German language and literature.

The Beta Iota Chapter of Eta Sigma Phi was established at Wake Forest in 1943. Its purposes, like those of the national chapter, are three-fold. The society strives to develop and promote interest in classical study among its members, to promote closer fraternal relationships among students who are interested in classical study, and to stimulate interest in the history, art, and literature of ancient Greece and Rome.

DELTA KAPPA NU

Delta Kappa Nu was organized on the old campus in 1953 for the purpose of uniting the girls in the Business Department and offering them a chance to grow professionally and socially. Tours to some of the various businesses in Winston-Salem to give members insight into the business world were highlights of the year. Each year, a silver tray is presented to the Business Woman of the year, a senior, chosen for her scholarship, character, faithfulness in duties, co-operation and professional interest.

Valuable professional experience is gained by members of the Women's Physical Education Club. Organized for the purpose of promoting the field of physical education, the club guides those who are interested in higher goals in the field.

Meetings twice a month provide professional tips on opportunities in recreation, camping, physical therapy, church recreation, and teaching of physical education, as well as fellowship and fun for the members.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The activities of the Legislature of Wake Forest College have been intense and varied, and its effects far-reaching. Close relationships with the faculty and administration have aided in making Student Government a vital force of representative student opinion on the campus. The year's accomplishments range the field from the installation of telephones in the Men's Dormitory suites to the effort put forth to solve the parking and traffic problem in front of the Girls' Dorms.

In their desire to expand the activities of Wake Forest Student Government, the Legislature sent representatives to the College Council of the United Nations, to the Model U.N., and to the State Student Legislature. They also did a great deal of planning for a large and comprehensive conference of college youth called the Wake Forest Conference, which is tentatively set for the spring of 1963.

HONOR COUNCIL

Sammy Merrill, Chairman.

In the spring of each year sixteen students are elected to serve the student body on the Honor Council. Membership on the Council entails specifically acting as jury for those who have been accused of violating the Honor Code. Often times during long tedious hours of deliberation over the guilt or innocence of a fellow student or over the exact punishment which should be administered, members of this body feel the necessary but difficult task of deciding to what measure justice must be mixed with mercy. However, the duties of the Honor Council extend far beyond the consideration of students who have violated the Code, for the first and most important responsibility of an Honor Council member is to strive to instill the spirit of honor within every individual who is a part of our college community. The Honor Code and Council are burdened with the necessity of punishing offenders, but the true spirit of both is rooted in the belief that honor is the keystone on which character is built.

WOMAN'S GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

As the number of women students at Wake Forest has increased, the responsibility of the organization which regulates their affairs has grown in importance. The Woman's Government Association is composed of all women students, and the co-operation of all is necessary for the proper function of the organization. An executive council made up of five major officers, five house presidents and a representative from each class, exists for the purpose of dealing with the specific concerns of the association and of each particular girl in her relationship to the organization. Members of the council must serve in an administrative, legislative, and judicial capacity. The executive board is advised by the Dean of Women and the House Hostesses in their efforts to develop a sense of individual responsibility, to further the spirit of unity among the women students, and to create and to maintain the ideals of the women of Wake Forest College.

The Social Standards Committee is the division of the Woman's Government Association which specifically seeks to establish high social standards for the women students of Wake Forest College. Activities of the committee include making arrangements for all social affairs sponsored by the Association. Best known among these social events are the three annual W.G.A. dances: the Christmas Dance, the Valentine's Dance, and the Magnolia Ball. However, other events such as the Big Sister-Little Sister Banquet and a tea during Freshmen Parent's Weekend help to keep the members of Social Standards busy all year 'round.

Memories of all social standards members include timid but determined phone calls, the frantic last-minute sale of dance bids, the excitement of Graylyn by moonlight, and the fear that the decorations won't stay in place. And after all the excitement and the fears, their only appreciation is the smiles on the faces of those who come and enjoy the results of their efforts.

Camp Laurel Ridge was the site of the pre-school retreat for new Wake Forest students, the first project of a busy year for the B.S.U. Monthly seminars, discussions, and lectures provided recreation and study in the newly decorated center in Wingate. Vesper services and mission projects enriched the program.

Representatives were sent to the Baptist State Convention, to the Leadership Workshop, and to the International Student Retreat. In conjunction with Wesley Foundation, students visited New York for a seminar entitled "The Nature of Christian Vocation."

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION AND SERVICE CLUB

The Christian Education and Service Club strives to attain a better understanding of Christian education in our churches and at the same time to provide members with opportunities for service in the Winston-Salem community. Weekly ministries to a colored church, a mission, and two homes for the aged and programs featuring missionaries on furlough, church ministries, and summer work opportunities are successful activities of the club. Though not affiliated with any denomination, the club hopes that the Christian principles and methods studies can be applied in many of our denominations.

CULLOM MINISTERIAL CONFERENCE

Named in honor of its founder, the W.R. Cullom Ministerial Conference promotes among the ministerial students of Wake Forest College the spirit of Christian fellowship. Study of problems peculiarly related to the work of the ministry and to the ministerial student is made with the purpose of upholding the highest standards of scholarly endeavor and Christian conduct.

The conference aids the ministerial student in finding his place in the life of the college and in making his contribution to the total campus and community life.

The Student Organ Guild of Wake Forest gives its members a chance to learn things about the organ that can not be learned in a regular lesson. Fun, fellowship, and inspirational programs were provided at supper meetings.

Local projects offered service possibilities for Y.W.A.'s while observance of the Weeks of Prayer for Home and Foreign Missions and contributing to the Lottie Moon and Annie Armstrong Offerings were ways to help those here at home as well as across the sea.

STUDENT UNION

"Never a dull moment" describes the life of any Wake Forest student who participates in any of the many activities of the Student Union. One night there may be a lecture; the next, a bridge tournament. Every Friday and Saturday nights, there is a movie to enjoy - and free too. Once a month the Barn offers a chance for dancing or for listening to the Deacons play ball. On special occasions such as Homecoming, the Student Union sponsors known groups as Lionel Hampton for dancing and the Four Freshmen for entertainment.

Glenda Hyman, Vice-President; George Ragland, President; and Claudia Saunders, Secretary-Treasurer.

Kelly Griffith's Lecture Committee sponsors outstanding speakers like Harry Golden.

As chairman of travel, Frank Lord arranges for student trips to New York and Navau.

Small Functions Chairman Dece Forsythe and Joyce Groom discuss decorations for the next Barn party.

Publicity chairman Charles Taylor keeps students informed of coming plays, lectures, movies, and concerts.

Richard Filippi, major functions chairman, discusses the program for the Homecoming performance with Lionel Hampton's manager, "Wild" Bill Bergacs.

The seasons offer opportunities for other activities. In the spring lawn concerts and the student-faculty picnic are only two of the many.

The Wake Forest student is well traveled. Thanksgiving vacation finds him in New York, spring holidays in Bermuda, and during the summer, Europe.

Behind all these activities are seven committees made up of students who are interested and willing to work. They work together for a more united body of students at Wake Forest College, striving to develop the social, recreational, cultural and educational aspects of every student's life.

MUSIC & DRAMA

The Concert Band performed in several student chapel programs, a formal evening concert and several outdoor twilight concerts. During the spring semester, the band toured the eastern section of North Carolina.

The Little Symphony had an active year performing the Bach "Magnificat" with the Chapel Choir, an Aria-Concerto Concert, an all-orchestra concert and an outdoor Pops Concert in May.

This year, the College Marching Band, looking sharper and sharper, used a precision routine style of show almost completely for the first time. The band performed at all four home games and represented the College at the Duke game in Durham, the N. C. State game in Raleigh and the Maryland game in College Park.

The Baton Twirlers performed regularly during the fall with the Marching Deacons and made several special appearances during the year.

CHAPEL CHOIR

At afternoon practice the choir polishes the next performance.

The Wake Forest College Chapel Choir reached a new peak this year when it presented Bach's Magnificat as a part of its annual Christmas Vesper Service. Besides this annual event the choir, directed by Dr. Thane McDonald, provided anthems at religious chapel and presented a program during Magnolia Festival. The Tuesday and Thursday afternoon practice sessions offered fun, fellowship, and experience in choral singing to each member.

The Wake Forest College Touring Choir was founded in 1948 by Dr. Thane McDonald and is now associated with the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs. Membership is selected from outstanding members of the Chapel Choir.

This year the choir sang its way through western North Carolina and on into Georgia. On tour the choir presented not only anthems in English but also selections in German and Latin.

Dr. "Mac" directs his choir for another out-of-town performance.

TOURING CHOIR

John Bell played Woods, the ladies' man, in the musical, "Finian's Rainbow" presented by the college theatre.

COLLEGE THEATRE

Hamlet was an exciting production to begin the season. Much of the play's success goes to guest artist Miss Gina Petrushka. Finian's Rainbow began second semester with a delightful fantasy touch, and Bye, Bye Birdie ended the year with a rollicking hit.

As scene designer and technical director, Mr. Bruce Hopper added new artistic beauty to our 1961-62 series of plays. Always experimenting for more effective theatre, director James Walton used the theatre-in-the-round as well as the proscenium theater. The Children's Hour made use of both theatres by moving the audience between acts.

Soprano Judy Morris thrilled audiences in her portrayal of Sharon in "Finian's Rainbow."

"The Children's Hour," a drama dealing with the consequences of idle gossip, featured Mary Martin Pickard and Judy Palmer in leading roles.

The forty-sixth year was unique for us because for one year "Covering the Campus Like the Magnolias" was our show, and the Old Gold and Black office our domain. It was a good year. According to the editor we were a "crackerjack" staff.

For the Old Gold and Black Staffers the weeks had a rhythm. Assignments were made on Monday, copy was in on Thursday and by Friday night at 11:30 the tension had reached fever pitch. Weekends began Saturday morning and were for sleeping, partying, studying . . . and waiting for the bus to return Sunday night carrying our "deathless prose," our "blood, sweat and tears."

THE STUDENT

To celebrate her eightieth anniversary, the Student Magazine made seven appearances this year.

New circulation methods—suite-to-suite and door-to-door—proved the old printing rates to be too low and circulation was increased to 2,400 copies for subsequent issues.

The office took on a new look for the anniversary. The decorating included fishnets, seashell ashtrays, posters and a new couch. Not only the office but the staff and the format of the magazine changed. The only thing allowed to remain constant in any publication office is the atmosphere. Borrowing glue from Old Gold the night the magazine goes together, guitar and bongo music in the office on Sunday night, the struggle to find three or four good people to review books each month, Sylvia and George writing polite notes via the bulletin board, we tried oh so hard not to be late again.

Last-minute editorial problems cause frantic moments for Diana Gilliland, Sylvia Birroughs, Mary Martin Pickard.

At the convention Adrian King, was elected Chairman of the College Council for the state and Linda Sutherland was elected Corresponding Secretary and "Miss Young Republican of North Carolina."

With the national Democratic Party goals in mind, the Wake Forest Young Democrats Club has sponsored activities designed to give each member a working knowledge of the party. ARMY ROTC

Today it is not enough that the potential army officer should have a grasp of the fundamental military principles. In this atomic era he must be prepared for warfare involving nuclear physics, international politics and strategy, and foreign policy. He must be a leader, an administrator, a staff specialist, an individual who measures up to the imperative taught by the ancient Greeks "to act as men of thought, to think as men of action."

Our national defense is predicated on a large, well-trained reserve force capable of immediate employment against any aggressor. The army, a vital element of this great force, relies predominantly on colleges and universities of this nation to provide the leaders it needs. It is the purpose of the ROTC to select students physically and academically qualified and to further train them in the basic principles of citizenship and military leadership.

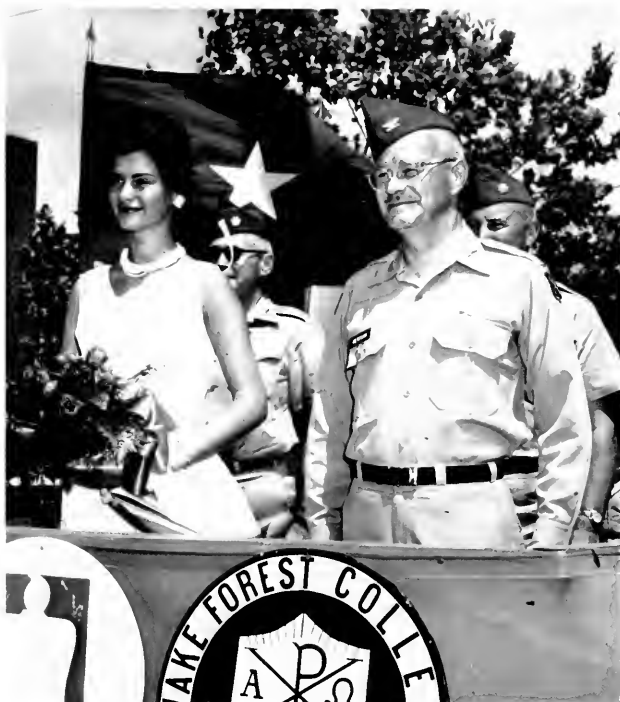

Upon graduation from college and completion of the Advanced ROTC Course, the student is commissioned a lieutenant in the Army Reserve. He accepts the responsibility of active citizenship, which requires the contribution of his leadership ability and service to the limits of his capacity.

An honorary military fraternity, the National Society of Scabbard and Blade was organized to develop and foster the ideas and practices of military education in the colleges and universities of this country where Military Science and Tactics is part of the curriculum.

Only those cadets who have excelled in Military Science and scholarship are selected for the Wake Forest chapter. Foremost among the qualities the cadets selected for membership must possess are leadership, patriotism, courage, and honor.

Pershing Rifles, a national honorary military society, was organized in 1898. The society is named in honor of Gen. John J. Pershing who organized the first P.R. unit at the University of Nebraska.

The Pershing Rifles unit at Wake Forest was organized in 1957 when it was composed of a drill unit. This unit was designated and initiated as Company D, Fourth Regiment with regimental headquarters at Clemson College. In the fall of 1961 the P.R. unit was expanded into a two platoon company the basic platoon emphasis standard drill, and the advance platoon emphasis fancy drill.

In addition to drill the P.R.'s are trained in scouting and patrolling, squad tactics, and military leadership.

The flashing lights on the scoreboard, the spotlight on Old Glory, the autumn sun on the playing field reflected in the shining instruments of the band—these are evidences that competition is about to begin.

Though both victory and defeat are experienced, lessons are learned, lessons in sportsmanship, in leadership, in understanding human characteristics.

Teams or individuals, each works to represent Wake Forest in the finest manner no matter what the recognition or the reward.

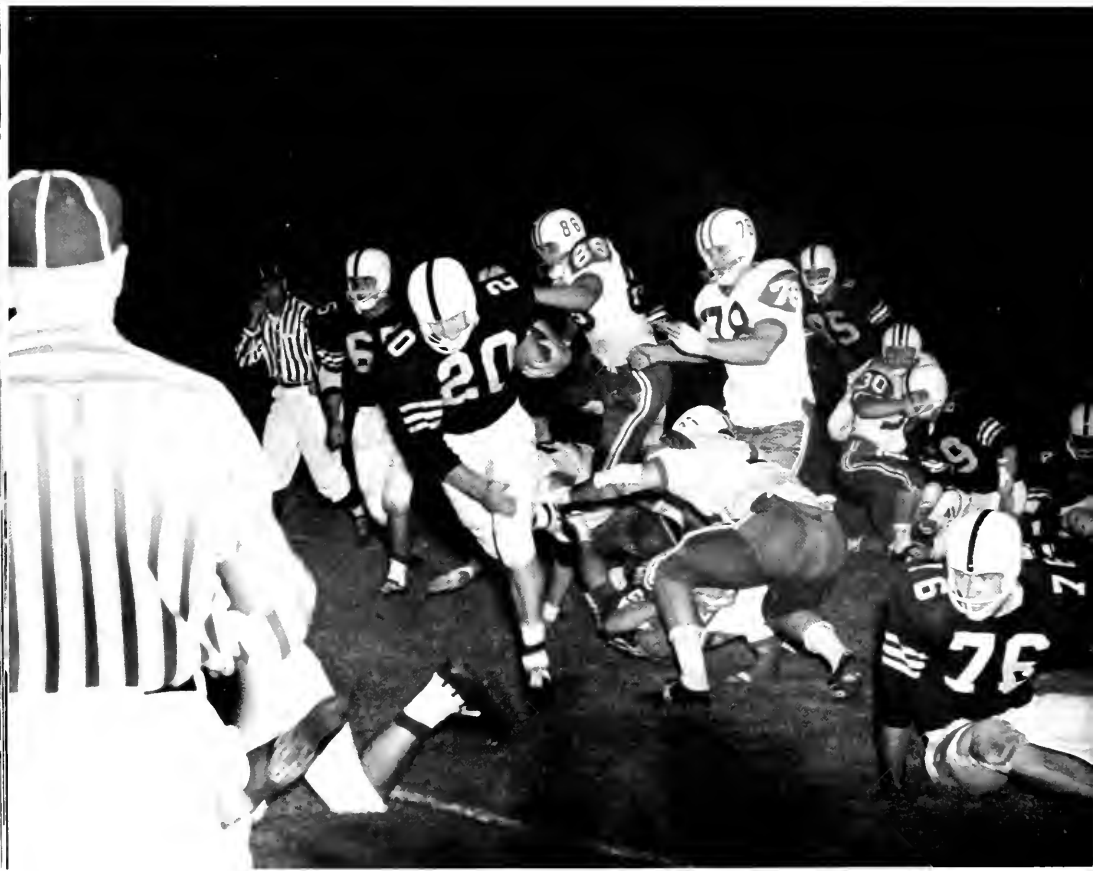

Competition brings diverse groups together binding them with a common loyalty and pride. Only a few may participate actively, but the glow on the face of the crowd in victory and the light of disappointment in their eyes with defeat reflect participation by all.

FOOTBALL

The most surprising aspect of Wake Forest's 1961 football season was not the 4-6 record — though considerably better than many fans dared to expect — but was rather the fact that in only two of the ten games were the Deacons really out-played. At the season's end it was generally agreed among sports writers and fans that with a few breaks the Deacons could conceivably have finished with an 8-2 record. This feeling was a tribute to the spirit and desire of a squad which was looked on as a probable doormat in most pre-season predictions, due chiefly to the graduation of All-America quarterback Norman Sneed, Wake's outstanding passer.

Alan White marches through the South Carolina line for another Deacon first down.

Defense hauls down Virginia ball-carrier stopping attempted yard gain.

Wanny Wagster adds to the W.F. cheering section.

The tribute perhaps was even more to the abilities of Wake Forest's sophomore head coach, Billy Hildebrand, and his staff. Hildy's accomplishments with a team that was forced to change its style of play entirely and rebuild from scratch after the passing of the Snead dynasty did not go unnoticed by other colleges. Mississippi State was among the schools rumored to have offered Hildy a coaching position, but, fortunately for Deacon supporters, he chose to stay at Wake Forest.

For the three years prior to last season, Wake Forest had been strictly a passing team. The Deacons had come to depend on the strong right arm of Norman Snead, and had placed little emphasis on their running attack. When Snead left, however, there was no one to replace his passing skills, and Wake Forest was forced into a complete about-face, finding it necessary to rely almost entirely on a running attack.

Head cheerleader, Arnan Harris, inspires the crowd during the game's low moments.

Confronted with the necessity of restyling his offense, Hildebrand came up with a runner who developed into one of the best in the Atlantic Coast Conference—senior halfback Alan White. Throughout the season, White was the mainstay of the Deacons' ground game, and, in spite of the fact that he played a great deal less than most of the conference's other top backs, White gained 586 yards in 93 attempts to lead the ACC with an average of 6.3 yards per carry. By the end of the season, Deacon fans had come to depend on White to get the two or three yards when they were needed, and their cries of "Give it to White" were usually answered by the hard-driving 182-pounder with the needed yardage and a few extra besides.

Filling Snead's shoes would have been a tough job for anyone, but senior Church Reiley made up for his comparative lack of passing ability with team leadership and clever play-calling, and carried out his role of first-team quarterback with distinction. Reiley mixed up the Deacon's ground attack well, taking advantage of opponent's weak spots whenever possible, and passing often enough and well enough to keep the defenses honest. He completed 32 passes in 88 attempts for 516 yards and four touchdowns.

Reiley's abilities as a team leader were recognized by his teammates, who voted him the "Most Inspirational Player" award at the close of the season.

Junior halfback Donnie Frederick was Wake's other running threat, and his speedy jaunts to the outside were a factor in keeping the middle open for White's power thrusts. Frederick gained 254 yards on 74 carries for a 3.4 rushing average, and was Wake's leading pass receiver, snaring 11 aerials for 237 yards and two touchdowns. Bruce McDonnell, Craven Williams, and Gerald Rudelitsch shared the fullbacking chores, while Winston Futch and Jack Tesh played behind White and Frederick at the halfback spots. Sophomore Wally Bridwell saw a good deal of action at quarterback when Hildebrand's second team took over.

The success of any rushing attack, as any runner will attest, depends on the offensive line. Due to Hildebrand's platooning, Wake's linemen were able to go all out while they were in the game, tearing holes in the enemy defense and providing the room for the Deacon backfield to gain 1590 yards on the ground, an average of 158.7 yards a game and second best in the conference.

Although the coach's voice is often drowned out by the crowds, Hildy's vigor on the sidelines spurs the Deacons on.

The Deacon's alert defense was too much for the Gobblers of V.P.I.

Conference-wide recognition was awarded to ends Bill Hull and Bill Ruby as second all-ACC team selections joining White, who was a first squad selection. Wake's punter, Bill Ruby, averaging 40.2 yards on 55 kicks won the ACC punting title and ranked among the best in the country. Place-kicker Micky Walker set an ACC field goal record with five during the season, and his field goals against Clemson and North Carolina proved to be the winning margins.

Although 12 key players from this year's squad will be lost through graduation, prospects for next season look bright.

BASKETBALL

The third-ranked basketball team in the United States' impossible for Wake Forest, some might say, but not this season. The 1961-62 edition of the Demon Deacons did finish the campaign in that enviable slot.

Ranked third in the country in practically every nationwide, preseason basketball poll, the Deacs started off their season rather slowly, to say the least, and won but nine of their first 17 contests.

After losing to Virginia Tech, 87-81, in Blackburg, Va., however, the Wake Foresters caught fire and proceeded to blast all opposition off the court in their next 12 contests.

Billy Packer executes a successful fast break.

Len Chappell overpowers a host of Ohio State defenders for another basket.

In route to their 12 consecutive wins, the Deacs topped Clemson, 77-66, for the Atlantic Coast Conference cage title, whipped Yale in the Palestra, 92-82, for a first round tournament victory, and downed St. Joseph's and Villanova in the Eastern Regionals of the NCAA-sponsored tourney to gain the final rounds in Louisville, Kentucky.

In the semi-finals of this gigantic tournament, the Ohio State Buckeyes, as they did to the Deacs in early December, topped Wake Forest. But the Deacons bounced right back the next night to capture the third spot in the nation with an 82-80 triumph over the Bruins of UCLA.

Al Koehler drives toward the lane to try for the lay-up.

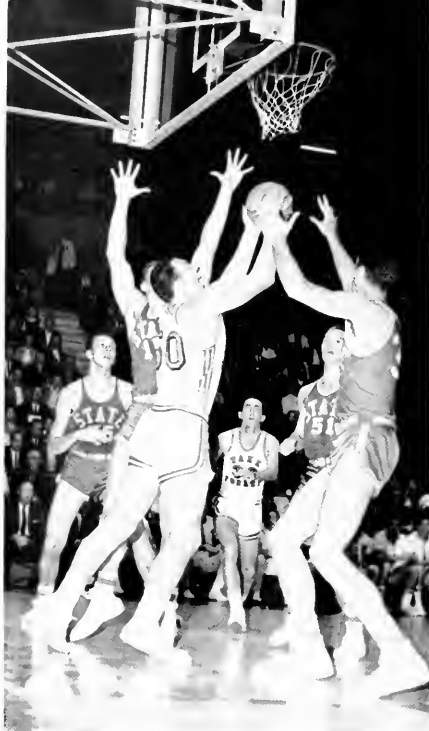

At the outset of the year's roundball activity, everyone in the country was more than a little bit puzzled at the play of the men of Bones McKinney.

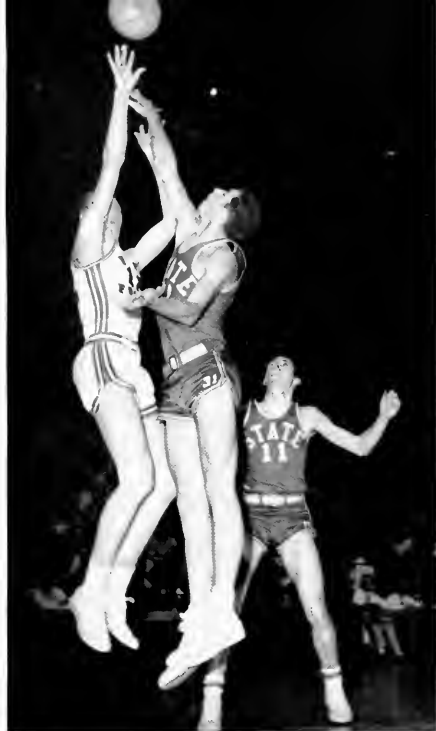

The Deacs, to say the least, were not impressive in their two opening games of the campaign although they were victorious over Davidson and N. C. State.

Against the top team in the nation, Ohio State, in their next encounter, the Deacs went down to defeat by the humiliating score of 84-62, and after that embarrassing event affairs seemed to go from bad to worse.

Although giving their all, the Wake Foresters lost seven of their next 14 contests, not at all good for a pre-season nationally-ranked squad.

Lenny's All American reputation draws heavy State guarding.

Bob Woollard shoots over heads and arms of State defenders for another successful goal.

After bowing to West Virginia, 101-99, the Deacs found themselves in hot water again in their next outing, but rallying from a 17-point deficit in the second half, they came back to top the Gamecocks of South Carolina, 78-74.

All-American Len Chappell began to hit his stride and the Deacs began a fantastic stretch drive. Averaging 32.2 points a contest for the last 18 games of the season and 15.2 rebounds overall, the Man-Mountain led Wake Forest to victory in 16 of its last 18 encounters.

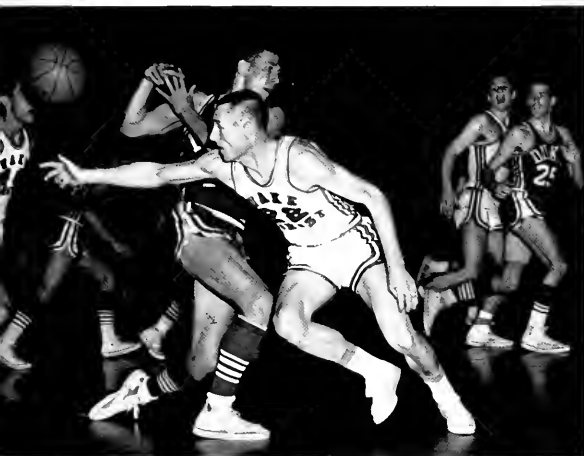

As a result of his surge down the stretch and his all-round consistent efforts, the gentle giant was awarded mention on every All-American squad in the country, a first team selection on the Associated Press, the National Enterprises Association, and "Look" Magazine's All-American teams.

With Chappell spearheading the attack, Wake nipped Clemson 82-80, but then was sidelined momentarily by Virginia Tech, 87-81.

The next time out against the University of North Carolina, the Deacs defeated the Tar Heels in hand boy Woollen Gymnasium, 87-80, and back home again two nights later the Virginia Cavaliers fell prey to the rampaging Deacons, 116-67, as Chappell set a new Wake Forest scoring record by racking up 50 markers.

Duke was plagued by Dave Wiedeman's fine defensive play.

The fine ball-handling control of sophomore Frank Christie won him a starting position on this year's team.

Lenny can hit the basket from anywhere on the court.

After the Duke slaughter, Maryland, N. C. State, and South Carolina quickly fell by the wayside as the Deacs roared to the regular season ACC championship and top-seeding in the conference tourney in Raleigh.

Although Chappell led the Deacs in their late-season march, he had plenty of help from the rest of his teammates. Billy Packer, who heretofore had slacked off at the end of the cage season, began to play the best ball of his career, and behind their two co-captains plus the efforts of all others on the squad, the Deacs swept the field clean in the tournament.

On March 3, after defeating Clemson 77-66, the Deacs were crowned official ACC champs and extended an invitation to participate in the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Chappell and Packer were named to the All-Tournament first team with wee Dave Wiedeman earning a second-team berth.

From Raleigh the Deacs journeyed back to Philadelphia's Palestra, to engage Yale University in the first round of the NCAA playoffs.

In the overtime, the Deacs wrecked the Yale boys' hopes by a 92-82 count.

Moving on over to College Park, Maryland, McKinney again called on McCoy to spark the Deacs to an overtime victory over St. Joseph's after Packer had brought Wake back from a six-point deficit with 1:02 on the clock.

The efforts of the Virginia defenders are futile as Wacky lays-up another two points.

The next night against the Villanova Wildcats, the Wake Foresters defeated the Philadelphians, 79-69, to advance to the finals in Louisville.

Anxious to top the Bucks, the Deacs found the task impossible, however, and went down to defeat, 84-68.

On Saturday night, UCL A fell victim to the hot-shooting Deacs, 82-80, as Chappell and Packer bowed out of collegiate competition in fine style.

The best defensive man in the ACC, Wiedeman, and Woollard, who led in rebounding, contributed heavily to the Victory.

"Bones" accepts, with his usual quips, the bid to the NC 11 Tournament from ACC President Eddie Cameron.

Football and basketball letterman Bill Hall could always be counted on for those needed rebounds or blocked shots.

BASEBALL

The 1961 edition of the Demon Deacon baseball team started off head mentor Jack Stallings' third season as head baseball coach in explosive style.

Led by the hard hitting of transfer Roger Coon, a Junior College All-American, and the pitching of senior Bob Plemmons, the Deacs won their first five home games of the season in impressive style.

Following this outstanding home debut, the diamond stars headed into the deep South for an extended tour of South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida going against such schools as Rollins, Furman, South Carolina, and Clemson.

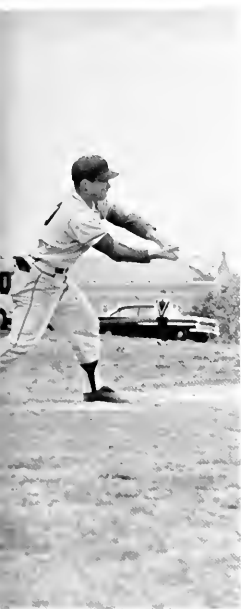

For the first six games of the road jaunt, the Deacs' record remained unblemished, but in the final game of a four game stand at Winter Park, Fla., Wake fell at the hands of Rollins College.

Team scrimmages are an important part of spring practice.

A good pitcher finds that there's no substitute for practice.

Concentrating on one phase of the game—like catching—can be tedious during practice but rewarding during the game.

Two afternoons later South Carolina sent the Deacs reeling for the second time (4-1). Wake, however, bounced back the next day to stop Clemson (5-0) behind the splendid pitching of Don Roth.

Losing only two of their next 13 contests, the Deacs emerged toward the end of the season as one of the prime contenders for the conference championship.

But then the roof caved in. Bowing to the Duke Blue Devils (12-10) in an error-riddled contest in Durham, Wake saw its ACC crown hopes diminish. Several days later these hopes were dashed as the Devils topped the Deacs again (3-1) in a rain-abbreviated encounter in Winston-Salem.

To round out the season the Deacs lost the finale of the year to Carolina (5-1), but ended up the year with an impressive 23-7 mark (9-5 in conference competition).

SWIMMING

Although the mariners lacked manpower, the coaching of Leo Ellison and the dedicated efforts of the small group of men made this year's team the strongest the college has yet produced.

This year's record of three wins and seven losses did not tell the whole story. Coach Ellison had only a small nucleus of returning lettermen. The remainder of the team was composed of sophomores who helped provide impetus for the team.

Wake's hurriers qualified more men in the finals and semi-finals of the A.C.C. indoor track meet than ever before.

TRACK

In the first outdoor meet of the 1962 season, Wake slipped by Washington and Lee at Lexington by the narrow margin of 69-62. Only eight men scored for Wake, but between them they managed ten first places, five second places, and four third places. Lack of depth seems to be a major hurdle to overcome this spring, but the Deacons have a great deal of quality. The freshmen are expected to be strong and should provide a much needed addition to next year's varsity.

Both varsity and freshman teams competed in three indoor meets during February and March. Dave Turner and Jeff Mitchiner were Bronze Medal winners in the A.C.C. Indoor Games.

As in cross country, the frosh appeared to be much stronger than any freshman team of the past. A new frosh record was set by the mile relay team in the A.C.C. Games while Walt Maguire tied the school high and low hurdles.

CROSS COUNTRY

The varsity cross country team experienced a winning season with a respectable 5-4 record. Led by Captain Ed Ledford the team gained third place in the State Championships behind Duke and North Carolina. Although two of the best runners were sidelined because of illness, the Deacons slipped to a sixth place finish in the Conference Championships ahead of Virginia and South Carolina. Letter winners were Ed Ledford, John Carter, George Adams, Paul Lucas, and Dave Turner.

The frosh team was the finest in the history of the school sweeping all nine meets and winning the State Championship. Calvin Brown and Ron Taylor led the frosh gaining first and third respectively in the State Meet. They were followed by medal winners Rick Hill and Bill Via.

The successful season was terminated by the participation of several of the runners in the 6 mile road race at Lexington, Va. and a 9 mile road race at Blacksburg, Va.

TENNIS

Prospects were much brighter this year for the Deacon tennis squad. Three returning lettermen, including the top two of last year, and three strong sophomores made this year's team one of the strongest. Rather than having any outstanding star, the team was well balanced from top to bottom.

The Deacs opened their season at home with a match against MIT on March 27. A full conference schedule was played with additional matches including East Carolina, Davidson and Toledo. The season closed with the conference tournament in Raleigh.

GOLF

The 1962 golf team has an excellent schedule this season. It plays such collegiate powers as Georgia, Florida, and Purdue. The team participates in three tournaments the Southern Intercollegiate tournament, the ACC tournament, and the N.C.A.A. tournament of which Purdue is the defending champion.

Four varsity golfers, Larry Allgood, Ken Folkes, Eddie Honeycutt, and Bobby Edgerton are on golf scholarships. Dennis Milne and Frank Locke complete the top set. Glenn Herring and Leon Brogden show promise of moving into the top six.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

Competitive swimming was added to the women's intramural program this year.

Women's Intramurals are designed to encourage participation of all the Wake Forest co-eds in individual and group sports. The program strives to provide an opportunity for fun and fellowship rather than emphasizing skill and ability.

Trophies are awarded to all winners and runners-up in individual tournaments, and charms are given to honorary varsity members participating in team sports. An accumulation of a required number of points results in the privilege of wearing the White Jacket.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

Men's Intramurals, a department within the Department of Physical Education, operates under the assumption that the value of a college education depends upon the total development of the individual student.

To help the student make constructive use of his leisure time, the Intramural Department offers a wide choice of recreational and competitive activities.

Teams are organized into Fraternity and Independent Leagues. When the champion of each league is determined, the two teams play for the campus championship.

Proper recognition of team and individual champions is given in the awarding of trophies.

MONOGRAM CLUB

The Monogram Club of Wake Forest College, an organization whose membership is limited to varsity letter winners, has had many opportunities this year to exhibit leadership and foster good will.

In October, the Monogram Club sponsored the Miss Demon Deacon contest, whose winner, Linda Sutherland, reigned over the Homecoming festivities. The Old Gold and Black Basketball game and the Children's Christmas Party at which they assisted in distributing gifts and entertaining the guests were the more memorable projects. In addition the club has added pictures and mementoes to the gymnasium trophy case to enhance its appearance.

A party for all Club members and their dates and the purchase of a new color television set contributed to the light side of the club.

Since it is a symbol of athletic prowess, sportsmanship, and respect, the Black and Gold Letter sweater is the desire for every campus athlete.

WHITE JACKETS

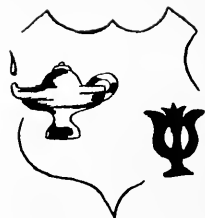

Every year, those girls who have earned a hundred points through participation in intramural activities are honored by being awarded the privilege of wearing a White Jacket. The honor is very satisfying as it represents many hours of hard work as well as play. The White Jacket is recognized as the symbol of the versatile girl who realizes the importance of developing within herself good sportsmanship and team loyalty.

The intramural key and the Wake Forest Blanket are awarded for an accumulation of a larger number of points through intramural participation in group and individual sports.

Some of the activities include establishing and enforcing rushing rules, interfraternity competition, and social events.

The I.F.C. sponsors two of the biggest events of the year, Greek Week in the fall and Greek Holiday in the spring. Competition in athletics, singing, decorations, followed by a dance combined to make Greek Week an outstanding event. The winner of the over-all week's activities is awarded a cherished trophy. Beta Lambda chapter was chartered in 1938 and re-established in 1956 when the college moved to Winston-Salem.

Today Delta Sigs are active in all phases of college life. Our influence can be felt from Wingate Hall to the Gymnasium, from Student Government to the science department, and from Pub Row to the Theater.

This has been a rewarding year for Delta Sigma Phi. For the sixth year we captured the Greek Week Award. We sponsored Christmas projects for needy children. Our annual Playboy Party and Carnation Ball were outstanding successes.

The Delta Sig's pool table is a popular gathering spot for talented—and lucky—brothers.

KAPPA ALPHA

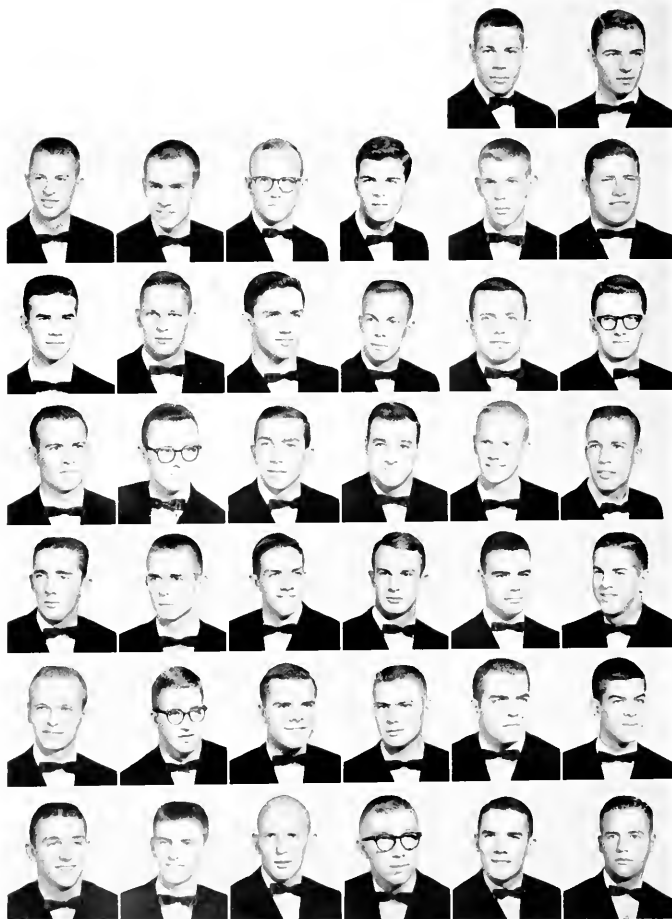

Tau Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order, the first social fraternity on the Wake Forest campus, is pledged to maintain the high ideals of character which were best exemplified by Robert L. Lee. Application of this national fraternity's standards, as manifested in our spiritual father, is uppermost in the collegiate life of each brother.

KA has constantly stressed the importance of scholastic achievement. Tau Chapter has earned the Scholastic Trophy eight of the last twelve years.

A year of outstanding achievements saw participation and accomplishment in the intramural program. Complementing the scholastic and athletic phases, the social year included such activities as the Orphans' Christmas Party, the Rose Ball, the Convivium, and the reign of Miss Lucy Barnes as KΑ Rose.

Delta Omega Chapter of Kappa Sigma Fraternity was founded at Wake Forest on December 9, 1939.

The stress on scholarship was rewarded this year when we received both the I.F.C. scholarship trophy and the pledge scholarship trophy for the 1960-1961 school year.

The social calendar consisted of numerous record and combo parties, the annual Christmas party for underprivileged children, and was highlighted by the annual Star and Crescent banquet, where the coveted "Man of the Year" award was presented and the Kappa Sigma Sweetheart was announced.

Proud Kappa Sigs admire their hard-won intramural trophies.

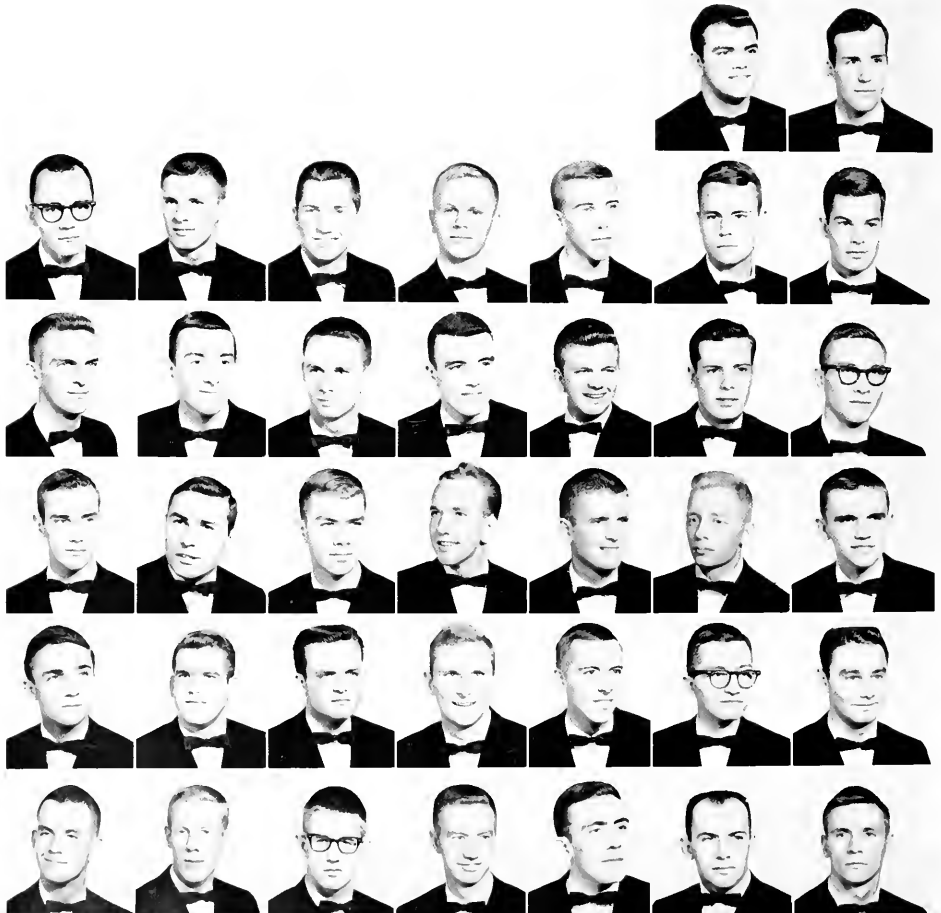

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The Tau Zeta chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha began the year with the "sharpest pledge class ever" who lived up to all expectations by stealing the Carolina ram to bring the fraternity and the school state-wide publicity. Then there was the project of finding owners for homeless dogs which received radio and newspaper coverage and smelled up the house for days.

Looking back over the year, we have many memories—the annual faculty tea, the White Rose Ball at the Robert F. Lee, the "Apple Polishing Banquet," Sunday Forums, combo parties, serenades, trips to the Chateau, bull sessions, and above all unity in brotherhood.

Gamma Phi Chapter of Wake Forest College worked, partied, played and studied its way through another great year.

A remodeled house and a successful rush season got the year off to a good start.

The Pikas were outstanding in intramurals, winning their 5th All-Campus Intramural trophy in six years in addition to copping the water polo and basketball championships.

Pinning, parties at the Walnut Room, Greek Week, and Dream Girl were some of the outstanding aspects of Pika social life.

Another great year comes and goes but the sign above our archway still proudly proclaims "The House that Brotherhood Built."

PiKA bridge players become quite good with constant practice.

SIGMA CHI

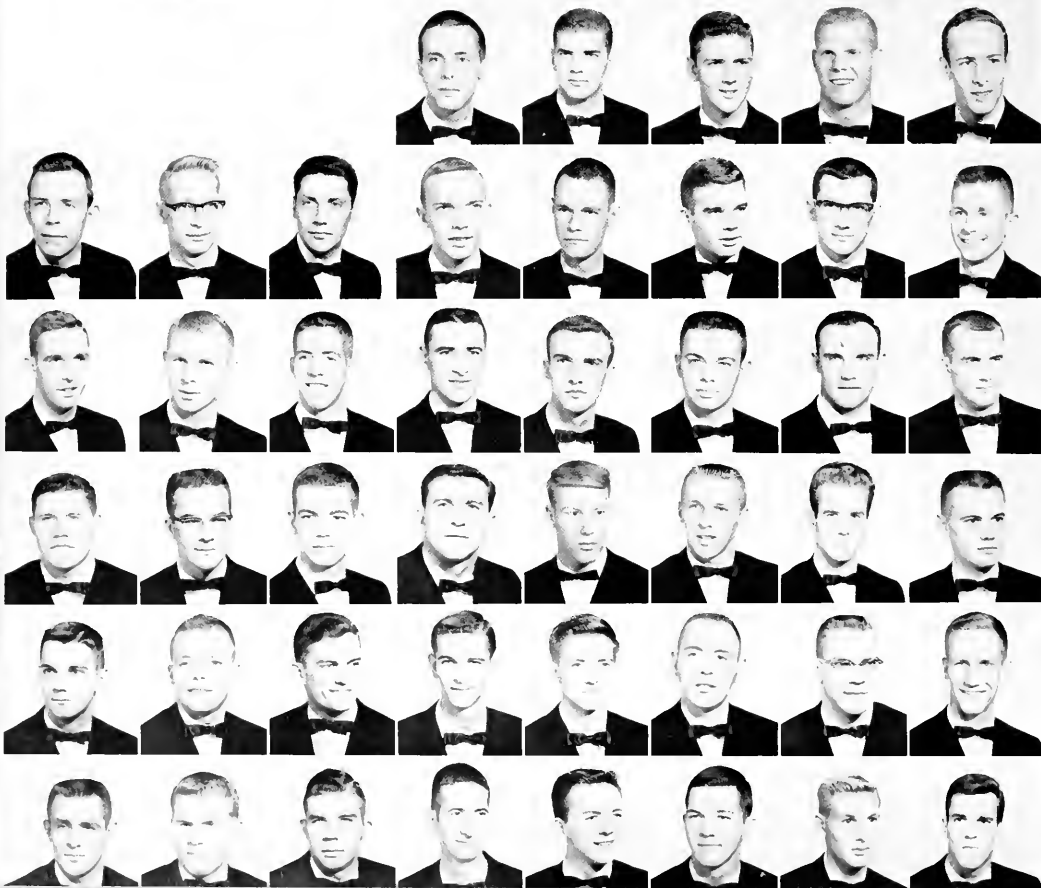

Delta Nu chapter began their fall semester with an intensive rush program which secured for them a pledge class of forty-eight men.

Athletics brought with them publicity for some outstanding Sigs. In football Jack Tesh, Bill Hull, Tom Lally, and Paul Martineau contributed to offense and defense. All American Len Chappell, Bill Hull and Brad Brooks displayed ability on the basketball courts. Other phases of college life as Student Government and Student Union felt Sigma Chi influence.

The Sweetheart Ball climaxed a social year of picnics and combo parties.

Sigma Phi Epsilon had its beginning at the University of Richmond in 1901 when a group of young men began an organization known as the Saturday Night Club.

A typical Sig Epsilon year with the North Carolina Zeta chapter begins with fall rush which includes numerous parties climaxed by a formal smoker.

In addition to many combo and fraternity "house" parties, social life includes the annual Pledge Dance, Greek Week, the Sig Epsilon Ball, and the Sweetheart Ball.

As a chapter we strive to stay a brotherhood promoting a balance of all areas of fraternity life.

The new juke box draws smiles of approval from brothers who are looking forward to using it at Sig Epsilon parties.

SIGMA PI

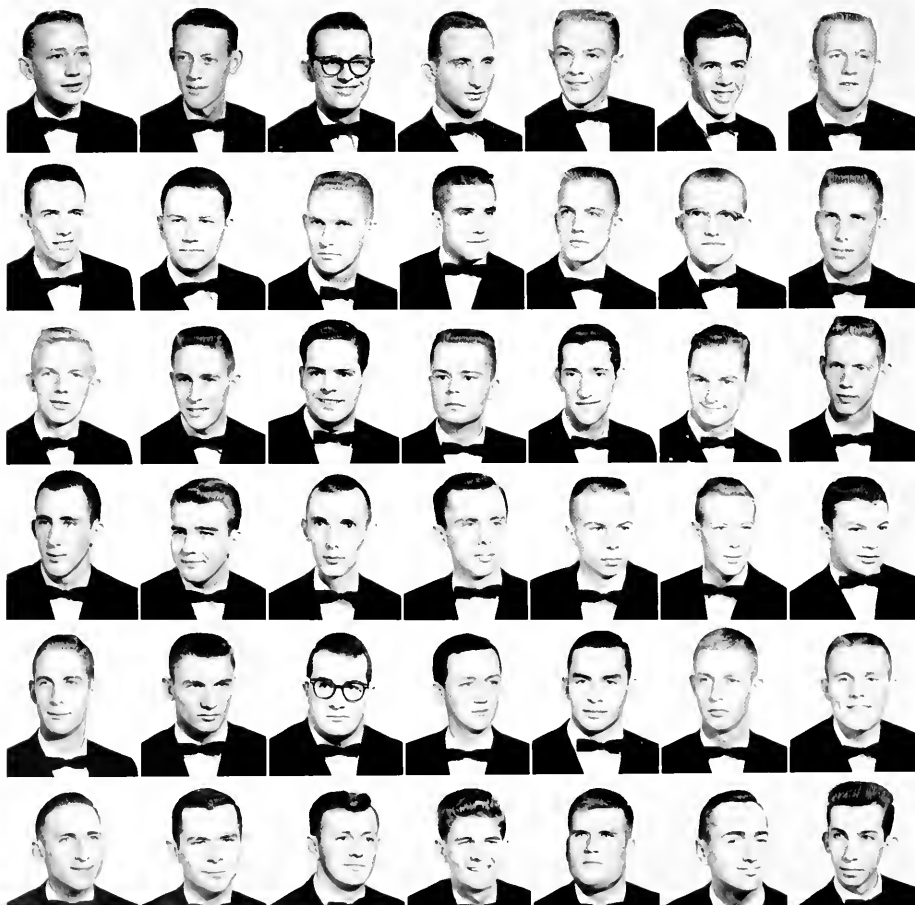

The Alpha Nu chapter was established at Wake Forest in 1940. It is one of sixty-two chapters of the national fraternity. Sigma Pi was founded at Vincennes College in 1897.

The Ballenise Roof party with the King Bees highlighted the fall rush program. Pledge night saw a large number of men interested in Sigma Pi.

Other social activities included combo parties, picnics, the Founder's Day Banquet, the Annual Orchid Ball, and the bridge tournament.

The fall semester brought back the brothers and pledges of Gamma Omicron, as well as Dr. Banks, the fraternity advisor, who had been teaching in Burma for a year.

After many hours of shaking hands and partying during rush season, pledge night found the fraternity with a pledge class of twenty-eight boys.

The Dream Girl Ball, at which Miss Robin Rhodes was crowned Dream Girl, measured up to everyone's highest expectations.

The Sword and Serpent, the children's party, and numerous combo parties rounded out another successful year.

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES

Wake Forest Co-eds may now choose from three women's societies: S.O.P.H., Strings, and Fiddles. These groups encourage service to the college and community, high social standards, participation in extra-curricular activities, and scholarship. As a reward for the highest scholastic average, a trophy is awarded to the outstanding club on a semester basis.

Coordinating and binding together these societies is the Inter-Society Council. This governing body, which is composed of representatives of the three groups, is also responsible for compiling rules governing rush, pledging and initiation.

Graduation, sheepskins, mortar boards are the important external evidences of four years of struggling to acquire knowledge. The "midnight oil" has been burned so that the light of truth may be more nearly known. Seniors have begun to realize that they know so little, while even freshmen have learned that there is so much more to be known.

Herein are pictured the students of Wake Forest College, Classes 1962-'65, people who have desired the experiences which college offers, whether those experiences be intellectual, spiritual, social, or whatever.

"We cannot pass this way again," but what we have learned cannot be taken away. We have become enlightened individuals according to the efforts we have exerted to attain those things in life which are of most value, those things which provide the light we must have to reveal the way to further progress.

CLASS OF 1962

The Goal is in sight. For many the Senior year is the end of an easy road, for others, the culmination of a struggle. But to all it is the beginning of a new way of life.

The Senior looks backward to the good times, the frustrations, the friends made, some perhaps already gone. He realizes that his years as a carefree student are ending and perhaps because of this each minute is cherished just a little more. Looking forward to the future with uncertainty, yet with a bit of curiosity as to what lies ahead, the Senior moves into another world.

CLASS OF 1963

The half-way mark has been reached, and thus the Junior appears, eager for the final lap of his college life. Studies suddenly find meaning when they are chosen and not required.

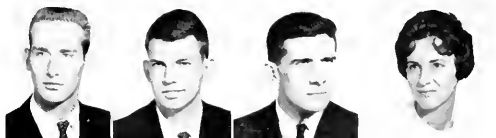

This year, the developing individual finds that he is the one chosen to lead the activities. Many think "But surely I am not as old or as wise as those before me." The feeling of inadequacy passes and successes bring excitement and then perhaps a pang of sorrow, for it has been all too short and has passed too quickly. Next year will be the last.

CLASS OF 1964

The Sophomore returns to a place which he already knows finding importance in being able to help those who do not know. He faces important decisions concerning majors and perhaps even changing schools.

From the Sophomores, individuals begin to emerge. It is these who are elected to positions and responsibilities of all phases of campus life. The individual takes a firm stand and makes his contribution to the campus community.

CLASS OF 1965

New, exciting, different, these are the words to describe the feelings, emotions and ideals of a freshman. This was a year of firsts—roommates to meet, friends to make, registration, Homecoming, basketball games, spring elections. A job for him to do, a bit of recognition, a smile of approval from an upperclassman—these are sought by freshmen.

The Unfamiliar is met shyly, hesitantly and then more boldly as the year reaches its end. And then, gradually, he begins to feel included, he knows he belongs, he becomes a part of the Spirit.

PHI DELTA PHI

Phi Delta Phi is the oldest legal fraternity in America. The Wake Forest chapter, Ruffin Inn, was organized in 1947.

The fraternity is a close brotherhood of students striving for a common goal, the practice of law. Its purpose is to promote a higher standard of professional ethics and scholarship among the members of the legal profession.

Outside the classroom, dinner parties and social functions sponsored by Ruffin Inn give the students valuable experience by contact with the leading members of the Bar.

Magister Murray Gresson's leadership helped the fraternity to have a successful year. Ruffin Inn had its largest pledge class in recent years. The year culminated with the Joint Initiation Ceremony before the Supreme Court Justices in Raleigh.

PHI ALPHA DELTA

Students in the Wake Forest Law School find that Phi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity, provides valuable experience outside the classroom.

To further an association with the legal profession, the fraternity plans its yearly activities to give its members and pledges the utmost contact with law at all times, whether it be an attorney's speaking at a meeting of the fraternity or a bull session at two in the morning about current affairs and international law.

Purely social events are also provided for alumni, members, and pledges. This year several banquets and luncheons were given. The Regional Conclave took place in February at the Robert F. Lee Hotel.

SCHOOL OF LAW

The School of Law of Wake Forest College was established in 1894 under the leadership of Dr. N. Y. Gulley. Underlying the growth of the school has been the commitment of the students and the faculty to the pursuit of scholarship, and to the concept that excellence in legal education can only be achieved by hard work. The Law School today has its separate building, new and modern in all respects and designed to accommodate the growth and future expansion of its program in the field of legal education. In addition to its excellent physical plant, the Law School has a faculty of eight full-time teachers and a visiting professor. Mr. John Hanna, distinguished Professor of Law of Columbia University, served on the faculty in this capacity for the 1961-1962 school year.

Among the activities sponsored by the Association are: an Orientation program for beginning students, the Fall Banquet, the Student Lounge, the Book Exchange, and the annual Law Day program. This year the Student Bar Association published an alumni bulletin with information on the graduating students and news of the Law School.

Dr. Henry Stroupe, Dean of Graduate Studies.

Wake Forest College first announced a program of study leading to an earned Master of Arts degree in 1866. From that date until 1949 graduate students were admitted to most departments of the College. The overcrowded conditions which prevailed after World War II necessitated the discontinuation of graduate work in the School of Arts and Sciences, but not in the Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

Prior to the removal of the College to Winston-Salem in 1956, plans were projected for the resumption of graduate study after arrival on the new campus. On January 13, 1961, the Trustees established the Division of Graduate Studies composed of six departments in the School of Arts and Sciences offering the M.A. degree and five departments in the Bowman Gray School of Medicine offering the M.S. or Ph.D. Degrees.

The first students in the newly-organized program in Arts and Sciences enrolled in September 1961. They were forty-three in number, came from twenty-three different colleges and universities, and began study in the Departments of Biology, Chemistry, English, History, Mathematics, and Physics. Graduate work in the Department of Education will be added in June.

FROM THE EDITOR

We come to college to receive the light of knowledge which is passed on to us by those who have already received the light of learning. We have all found our places. Some have taken their first steps on the path of truth, while others have passed along to more advanced stages of the journey. Those of us who are leaving Wake Forest have not reached the end of this path, but we will continue to seek and to grow.

Your 1962 HOWLER has sought to express the giving and receiving of the light of truth through students, faculty, and staff. Memories are recorded here to help you recall your 1961-62 year at Wake Forest.

THE HOWLER could not have been published without the help and co-operation of many people. We offer our sincere thanks:

To artist Ralph Van Dyke of Jahn and Ollier Engraving Co. who designed our book and helped in production.

To Joe Phelps of Edwards and Broughton Printing Co. who solved our production and printing problems.

To Dean Wilson, our advisor and friend, for his ready guidance and sympathy.

And finally to the 1962 HOWLER staff who gave of their time and effort so faithfully to meet the ever present deadlines.

We hope you enjoy the 1962 HOWLER, not only this year, but in the ten and twenty years to come.

Best wishes!
Suzanne Davis

Growing with NORTH CAROLINA

The Journal and Sentinel newspapers are always alert to the desires of the people of Winston-Salem and northwest North Carolina for "coverage" of news events—space exploration, concerts, meetings of varied nature, sports, etc. . . . The Journal and Sentinel keeps pace with a growing state!

Take COLOR advertising as an example: in 1961 the Journal and Sentinel had an increase in color display advertising of 29.2%. The number of advertisements utilizing the sales potential of color reach 527. This is a real indication of the growth and activity of the Winston-Salem market—
